It is said to be the most restrict musical play Madams Scheff by Henry Blossom and Victor rhert. It is said to be the most coessful musical play Madame Scheff yet had as a star. less and has been reared in a world where appearance counts for everything. Two men come into her life—an uncouth young western milkonaire, whom her ambitious relatives are anxious she should marry, and an energetic young American with small means but ample independence, and with an inborn disdain for all trickery and deceft. How Katherine decides between these two men and how her eyes are finally opened to the humiliation of the pitiful part she has been playing are interestingly worked out in the closing scenes of the play.

Miss Crosman brings to the role of Katherine all her wonderful skill, and the play has been pronounced one of the emphatic comedy hits of several seasons.

Season's Strongest Bill at Auditorium.

"Great show," "Fine," and "Best ever" were the ejaculations heard on all sides, as the large crowds left the Auditorium after each performance Monday and Tuesday. An act that caused breathless astonishment was the marvelous gymnastic work of the Eugene Trio, who fly through their different routines at express speed. Double somersaults come as fast in this act, as singles in the average bar act. The clown member of the act under the guise of comedy performs some difficult and amusing work. The singing sketch. "Cleo's Awakening" has quite an element of novelty in it, and othese great surprise when an apparantly ordinary oil painting comes to life and steps out of the frame. The singing of both the principals in the act is decidedly meritorious, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Young registefed a large sized hit with their clever Rube characterizations and their rapid fire trick widlin playing brought down the house. Don't miss it. W. T. Felton proved that he can "go some" when punching hags are concerned, a special feature is that of, keeping six bags going at once. The pictures are better than ever and are becoming stronger favorites daily. Only Independent films used. "There's a Reason," Did You See, "A Shot in Time," Not So Rad.

BREED THEATER.

Additional Feature Pictures Attract

Large Audience.

A new feature picture at the Breed theater last evening, entitled The rish Boy, attracted many, and held heir undivided attention during its presentation. It is a pretty story of the Emerald isle, and is a distinct novelty in its line. There is much comply in it, but a strong vein of pathos, arrying a romance that is both thrilling and interesting, runs through it isles. Some delightful Irish melodies are played during the running of the electure which adds greatly to its attractiveness.

The powerful naval picture, entitled the Hand of Uncle Sam, is another eading feature, and includes in its many features, some excellent views at Panama, and a view of the torpedo lost destroyer Panther entering the marbor under full speed.

The wonderful Biograph picture entitled As It Is in Life, shows some marvelous views of extensive pigeon arming in California, and has a fasinating romance that serves as a plot. Inving Joy's splendid singing of Will darion Cook's beautiful ballad, entitled The Red, Red Rose, is easily one of the gems of the bill, which wins for tim many admirers for his fine tenor roice.
